

American Bar Association
Washington, DC

APM Engineering
Photography: Regis Lefebure

Located two blocks from the White House, the American Bar Association requested exterior lighting. Preservationist Committee approvals were possible using warm temperature light sources along with shielded fixtures concealed within the balustrades of the building. Full scale mockups aided the design process.

