

Society for Neuroscience
Washington, DC

Envision Architects PC
Photographer: Eric Laignel

The three dimensional feature wall of a centrally located stair interprets an historical sketch important to the Society for Neuroscience. As a LEED project, using standard projectors for a 30ft high wall was not an option. Through mockups, a determination was made about placement and angle of the high output LED grazing strip intended to enhance the sculptural panels; ambient light levels were kept low to increase contrast between stair landings and the wall.

